Continuing Professional Development courses are essential for a wide variety of professions. Forward-thinking individuals in industry are always looking for ways to enhance their knowledge and expertise in their field, and in many professions, CPD is considered vital for career progression.

Developing and delivering CPD courses for individuals like these is an excellent way for you, as academics, to build links with industry in both the private and public sector, whilst also widening your own professional networks and personal experience.

CPD can be packaged in a wide variety of formats and durations. These can include more classic on-site classroom delivery, externally-delivered bespoke courses, distance learning modules and online blended learning.

In line with the University’s ‘Strategy 2020’, the CPD Services team are here to help you to offer Nottingham’s world-class teaching to a global audience. You can take part in the vision to expand The University’s professional development and executive education provision locally, nationally and internationally, to support knowledge exchange, partnership building and income generation via CPD.

Benefits to you:
• Expanding skills and experience
• Commercialising your expertise
• Building links with industry
• Leveraging greater research income
• Improving your research impact
• Enhancing school income
• Improving personal reputation
• Developing career prospects

Benefits to the University:
• Supporting knowledge exchange, partnership building and income generation via CPD.

Our Services
Continuing Professional Development (CPD) Services is a central resource, which supports academics and schools in developing their CPD strategy, expanding their portfolio of courses and taking new ideas from concept to delivery. Our varied support and expertise includes:
• Consultation and advice on developing initial CPD ideas
• Strategic business planning for developing your offer
• Facilitating set-up and delivery of new CPD open courses
• Advice on funding streams to support your programmes
• Costing for your CPD activities
• Competitive CPD proposal- and tender-writing support
• Professional body accreditation applications
• In-depth insight and analysis into UK and international CPD markets
• Links to local, national and international industry

International Expertise
Working closely with teams at the Malaysia and China campuses, we are resourced to respond to CPD development needs across the whole institution.

If you are interested in working with our campuses in Asia to provide international training solutions, we can help you to establish these links.

“Our Global Strategy 2020 highlights the need to expand professional development and executive education provision locally, nationally and internationally to support knowledge exchange and partnership-building through highly-relevant, professional development courses for individuals and businesses. The Continuous Professional Development (CPD) Services team are a key resource to achieve this aim.”

Professor Sir David Greenaway, Vice Chancellor
