

The Research Methods in Viking and Anglo-Saxon Studies cohort for 2018/19 invite you to the opening of a new exhibition:

Vikings in the East Midlands: Forging Relationships, Forming Identities

The exhibition explores how Scandinavian settlers established themselves in the East Midlands while also maintaining a strong international outlook. Supported by Clare Pickersgill from the University of Nottingham Museum, we selected a range of objects from domestic and public life which reveal the rich and diverse culture of the Scandinavians who settled here.

The objects in the exhibition have been generously loaned to us from the Vikings in the East Midlands collection (<http://emidsmikings.ac.uk>) and were created by Adam Parsons from Blueaxe Reproductions. We would also like to thank our lecturers, John Baker, Judith Jesch and Christina Lee, for their advice and encouragement as we created the exhibition. We are grateful to the School of English for their generous support and to Rebecca Peck for her assistance.

The official opening will be held on Tuesday 11th June 2019 at 6pm, in the English corridor. Drinks and light refreshments will be served. We would love to see you there!
