

What if the world's greatest challenges were in your hands?

15 years
150+ Universities
480+ programmes
30,000+ students

Join a diverse group of 150 students from University of Nottingham, University of Birmingham and the global Universitas 21 network in the Global Leader Experience (GLE) where you will develop your ability to lead from a truly global perspective. You will play a part in tackling the biggest issues facing businesses, governments and societies worldwide.

The GLE gives you real and practical experiences, instils in you a global perspective and challenges you to adapt and thrive in diverse situations. It equips you with the skills and tools you need to lead change, now and in the future.

“I have thoroughly enjoyed this leadership programme. It is inclusive, exciting, integrated and provides you with self-reflection skills to be a fair and inclusive leader. I will take my skills and knowledge learnt through this programme into my future working life as a staff nurse and I believe it will fuel my commitment to progressing in future management nursing roles.”

What happens?

The programme takes place across four half-days online, each involving up to 4 hours of engagement.

During the programme, you explore a major world challenge, “How do we ensure our cities are resilient and inclusive for a post-pandemic world?”, from a global perspective.

You engage with visionary leaders from local and global businesses, governments and not-for-profit organisations, whose insights will further your understanding of the challenge, and help you find creative ways to solve it.

Throughout the programme, you participate in a combination of full-group sessions and small breakout sessions, where you build connections with your peers, from your University, University of Birmingham and the global Universitas 21 network.

Who could you meet?

During the four days, you could engage with senior leaders from organisations such as:

- Amazon
- Amnesty International
- Barclay's
- BBC
- Clean Energy Business Council
- Microsoft
- Re-imagining Cities Foundation

What previous participants have said

93% of students say that through deepening their understanding of other cultures they are more empathetic as a result of their programme.

95% of students say that through working with difference they became more agile as a result of their programme.

92% of students say that through solving complex problems they became more influential as a result of their programme.

97% of students would recommend their programme to another person.

A global network

Everyone who finishes a Common Purpose programme, anywhere in the world, joins the Common Purpose alumni network - a 95,000 strong, growing, global community of our alumni with exceptional diversity and a huge range of skills, interests and leadership experiences.

Some will be very senior, experienced leaders across the public, private and NGO sectors, others will be emerging leaders and some will be fellow students just finishing university. This breadth and depth makes the network unique.

Earn an digital certificate and an ‘Inclusive Leadership’ micro-credential

Upon completion of the programme, you receive a digital Common Purpose certificate for your participation. You also have the opportunity to demonstrate your learning by earning the embedded Inclusive Leadership micro-credential, which can then be displayed on your LinkedIn profile and as part of your digital backpack.

“I have gained deep insight into the different ways people work and the best way to get the most out of every team member.”
