

British Pharmaceutical Students' Association

What is the British Pharmaceutical Students' Association?

We are the Official Student Organisation of the Royal Pharmaceutical Society.

Since 1942, we have represented, inspired and advocated for Pharmacy Students across England, Scotland and Wales.

The BPSA would not exist without the Executive. Made up of 19 members, these are the people who work to coordinate, plan and organise our events and services. The members of the Exec are all either completing their university studies, pre-registration training or are newly qualified pharmacists.

The BPSA have a network of Student Representatives who are based in every School of Pharmacy. The representatives are a vital part of what we do, promoting events and representing their School of Pharmacy. Applications open twice a year; once during the summer and again at the start of the academic year. For more information, see the BPSA website.

What does the BPSA actually do?

Just some of the amazing things that you get as a member of the BPSA include:

- Our renowned Annual Conference
- Area Conferences
- Student Exchange Programme
- Publications – which students are encouraged to write for!
- Competitions
- EPSA- The European Pharmaceutical Students' Association
- IPSF- The International Pharmaceutical Students' Federation
- And much more!

Great! How do I get involved?

Keep an eye out for Rep applications! Check out the website for more information.
